Burns' Night A Grand Success Friday Evening

D. Young, Chairman; Many Present From Pass Towns; Entertaining Program

Coleman Caledonian Society held its annual Burns' supper in the L.O.O.F. hall on Friday evening, January 24, when about 120 persons from Coleman and other Pass towns sat down to partake of a turkey supper. Dave Young, general manager of Hillcrest-Mohawk Collieries, Bellevue, was chairman. Singing of the national anthem, "O Canada," was followed by the piping in of that old Scottish delicacy, the haggis, by Piper Jim Moore, and was then laid in front of Dave Gillespie who in his inimitable manner gave the address to the haggis. Grace, also was given by Mr. Gillespie.

The toast to the King was given by Mr. W. H. Garner. Miss Lisa Ramsay led off the program by singing "Hame O' Mine" and "When the Lights of London Shine Again." Lighter Dave Young gave the address to "The Immortal Memory" in his usual fine style, and was followed by Rev. J. E. Kirk, who delivered the toast to "The Homeland." Miss M. McCulloch sang the old favorites, "Ye Banks and Braes" and "Annie Laurie." Mrs. Holmes put the gathering in good cheer with her humorous recitations, and Piper Jim Moore was given much applause following his rendition of several stirring pipe selections.

Father Leo Sullivan gave the toast to "Land of Our Adoption," and was followed by Dr. C. Rose, who sang Harry Lauder's song, "Keep Right on to the End of the Road," and "The Celtic Song." The gathering joined in on the latter. Miss Kathleen McLellan sang "Bonnie Lassie O'" and "Danny Boy" in pleasing manner. During the program the chairman told a number of humorous stories, and Rev. J. E. Kirk showed he could take the humor in his own hands when delivering his address to the "Lassies," to which Mrs. Tom McGregor made suitable reply.

Miss Mary Kerr, of Bellevue, gave a few recitations of Burns' poems, and was followed by Mr. T. Hill, who played two fine selections on his violin. John McEwen, who closed the program with a number of cheery Scottish dance selections on his accordion.

The tables were soon cleared from the floor and until Scotch dancing was enjoyed until two a.m. George Ford being M.C. Piper Jim Moore and Mason's orchestra supplied the music.—J.A.P.

Miners Crush Blairmore By 8-2 Decision

Fraser and Pietroszko Pace Locals; Good Crowd Present; Ice Rough

As the Crown's Nest intermediate team came down the home stretch a terrific battle is being waged between the Miners and Lethbridge Juniors for first place in the league standing. At present the juniors are five points out in front, but have several more games played than have the Miners who were held back by mild spells of weather throughout the winter.

Miners continued their winning ways on Monday night by crushing Tony Vojprava's charges under an 8-2 score. Miners were on top after three minutes of play and won as they pleased. The ice was hard but very rough and good hockey was impossible.

Fraser and Pietroszko pace scored two goals. Murdoch, Fields, Kwanie and Jenkins added the others. Kanik and Hobson scored the Blairmore tallies. Ten penalties were incurred, four to Coleman and six to Blairmore.

Miners took a 4-1 lead in the first period when by Murdoch, Pietroszko 2, and Fraser. Kanik scored for Blairmore. Miners increased their lead to 7-1 in the second canto on goals by Fields, Kwanie and Fraser. In the third Jenkins, his goal being matched by Hobson of the Bears who scored with six minutes of the period remaining.

Council meeting scheduled for last Tuesday evening was cancelled when only the mayor and two councillors were present. This was to have been the last meeting of the present council before the municipal elections.

Must Be British Subject in Order to Vote

May Be Called Upon to Produce Naturalization Papers

According to the School Act received this year every voter must either be a British subject by birth or naturalization. While the election officials know a large number of persons with their naturalization papers it would save time if each voter of foreign birth would have his papers on his person for the poll he will be asked at the polling table.

Here is the paragraph which states all voters must be British subjects: "In a school district any person whose name is on the school voters' list and any person whose name has been added to the assessment roll by reason of the payment of the minimum tax levied by the Coleman School District, No. 1216, provided that such person is a British subject."

St. Paul's United Church Annual Congregational Meet'g

On Monday evening, January 27, St. Paul's United church held their annual congregational meeting when they received the reports from the various organizations of the church which revealed that after a number of improvements were made to the church property, including the renovation of the interior of the church by the Ladies' Association and the new cement steps by the Sunday school at the church entrance, there was a very substantial cash surplus in practically every department of the church. The M. and M. contributions were also substantially increased.

In the election of church officers Mr. James Glendenning and Dr. C. Rose were elected as new members to the Session. The election of the Board of Stewards will take place Sunday, February 9, at 11 a.m. Mr. J. Glendenning was again elected as secretary of the congregation.

R.C.A.F. Wants Recruits Soon

PO Gordon Nurcombe Arrives — To Enlist Air Crew Men

"There is expected to be greatly increased activity in recruiting very shortly," was the message Flying Officer Gordon Nurcombe brought from eastern Canada when he took up his new duties as recruiting officer at the Calgary recruiting centre of the Royal Canadian Air Force Monday.

Flying Officer Nurcombe applied for the air force in Vancouver but was called by the Calgary office last December. He has just completed the administrative course at Trenton, Ont., and has come to Calgary to assist Flight Lieut. G. A. Hodgetts, officer commanding the recruiting centre, and Flying Officer G. W. C. Kinney, recruiting officer.

The new officer was formerly with the Bank of Commerce and had been stationed at a number of points throughout the province, including Nanton, Coleman and Medicine Hat. He will visit these places in his recruiting tours, alternating with Flying Officer Kinney.—Calgary Alberta.

PEE WEE HOCKEY LEAGUE NOTES

The four Coleman Pee Wee hockey teams started a regular league schedule on Sunday, Jan. 26.

Lions 4, White Eagles 0, Elks 3, General Electrics 2. The boys played exceptionally well, their positional play and close backchecking featuring the closely contested games.

The Shamrocks outscored their rivals 10-7 in the regular midweek game. These youngsters are showing vast improvement and are now in training for the midweek play-off.

Coach Fred Slugg is in charge of this year's team which has the "backbone" of most of last year's team, the X-L's. Exhibition games are being arranged and full-hearted support of all ardent hockey fans is anticipated. Pee Wee league games each Sunday at 3:30. A midweek game will be played next Sunday at 3:30.

Lance Corporal Edward Bernard spent the weekend at his home at Blairmore. He is at present stationed at Lethbridge.

Dominion War Savings Certificate Scheme Presented to Lions Club

A. G. Baalim, Southern Alberta Organizer, and Lynn Fairbairn Speak On Dominion War Savings Certificate Project; Two New Members Added to Local Club

At a largely attended meeting of the Lions' club on Tuesday evening, January 28, Mr. Arthur G. Baalim of Lethbridge, the southern organizer of the Dominion War Savings Certificate Project, and Mr. Lynn Fairbairn, a well-known barrister of the same city, addressed a representative group of citizens from Bellevue and Blairmore, along with the members of the local Lions' club, on the Dominion government plan of raising $10,000,000 per month toward the war effort through the sale of War Saving Certificates to the citizens and wage earners of the Dominion and the very imperative need of supporting the Dominion government in their war effort at this time.

Mr. Baalim, with a few introductory remarks relating to the effort being put forth to organize for the February canvass for War Certificates under the Dominion plan, introduced Lynn Fairbairn, who first brought greetings from the Service clubs of Lethbridge of which he and Mr. Baalim were members, and then launched out in a stirring and challenging address which revealed the importance of the Dominion government plan of raising $10,000,000 per month toward the war effort through the sale of War Saving Certificates to the citizens and wage earners of the Dominion and the very imperative need of supporting the Dominion government in their war effort at this time.

THE SINGING EVANGELISTS TO VISIT PASS

Envoy and Mrs. Taylor, the singing evangelists, will visit the Salvation Army from Thursday, January 30, to Sunday, February 9, when they will conduct a revival campaign. There will be a public meeting every night except Saturday, at 8 p.m. On Sundays the visiting revivalists will conduct services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The Envoy, who before his conversion gained for himself the name of "Fighting Bob," is a real trophy of grace, having been saved from a life of sin and vice. Both he and his wife are fiery, fearless and fundamental in their messages of word and song.

For a series of real old-fashioned Gospel meetings be sure to attend the Army during the visit of these evangelists.

Miss Beatrice Jackson has secured a secretarial position at the Calgary air school.

VISITING HERE

Envoy "Fighting Bob" and Mrs. Taylor, the singing evangelists, who are conducting revival meetings at the Salvation Army from Thursday, January 30, to Sunday, February 9.

RED CROSS TO SPONSOR PAY DAY DANCES

Coleman branch of The Canadian Red Cross will sponsor dances every pay Saturday in the Italian hall, commencing at 9 p.m. Edles' orchestra has been engaged for the season. Last pay Saturday a good crowd was in attendance and a tidy sum was netted for the association. It is hoped to popularize these dances and in this manner aid the Canadian Red Cross.

WEDDINGS

CELLI—LOVE The marriage of Miss Joan Love, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jack Love of Regina, to Floyd Celli, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Celli, of Creston, took place at Macleod on Wednesday, September 11, 1940. Mr. and Mrs. Celli operate the Palm Confectionery. Their many friends wish them many years of married bliss.

Jimmy Joyce Gets Release From Lethbridge Maple Leafs

At a meeting of the Alberta Hockey association at Calgary on Sunday, Jimmy Joyce was given his release from Lethbridge Maple Leafs.

According to Joe McDougall, Pass representative at the meeting, Joyce can still play for Leafs if he wishes but cannot play for any other team this season. This means that Joyce's services cannot be placed at the disposal of Coleman Miners in the provincial play-offs.

The question was asked of McDougall: What about Biff Smith of the Calgary Stampede who now plays for Calgary Tigers? The reply received was that the Calgary Tigers and Calgary Stampede are one and the same club. The Tigers are financed from the same treasury and governed by the same executive. Stampede are free to bring up to the senior team or send down any player to the intermediate team without violating any hockey association rules. In this manner Smith is eligible to play for Tigers while Joyce is out in the cold, providing he decides against donning a Maple Leaf uniform, when the play-offs roll around.

There must be money in this hockey business when an amateur club can afford to finance a "farm" team.

Intermediate League Play-Offs Arranged

Semi-Finals and Final To Be Home and Home Total Goals To Count

A league meeting was held in Coleman last Friday evening attended by representatives from all four clubs. Business was to arrange for league play-offs in the semi-final and final.

It was decided that the second and third placed teams play a home and home game series, total goals to count. The winner would advance to the final where another home and home game total goals to count series would be played against the league winners.

This play-off in no way affects the teams from entering the provincial play-offs which is an entirely separate competition.

Rebekah Lodge Held Installation of Officers

Sister Mary E. Cornett, Noble Grand, D.D.P. Sister Bogash and Staff Paid Official Visit

Tuesday, Jan. 21, D.D.P. Sister Bogash and staff paid an official visit to the local Rebekah lodge and presided at the installation of officers for 1941.

STOP! MEANS STOP! AT INTERSECTIONS

A few days ago a local resident was up in police court charged with failing to stop his car at a Baker street intersection. His little oversight cost him $10 and costs. Police say that some drivers are becoming careless in observing the rules and merely slow down a bit before entering the city's main business street. The signs say "Stop!" and mean what they say, and the police intend to tighten up and see to it that the rules are adhered to.—Cranshaw Courier.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS AND GENERAL SHOPWORK NIGHT CLASSES ENDED WEDNESDAY

Night classes held in the high school during the past five months in household economics and general shopwork came to a close on Wednesday evening. Instructors were Miss Jean Park and Mr. Frank Turner. Fee for the five months' tuition was five dollars.

Kerr Rink Makes Bid For Grand Aggregate

Still In Four Competitions Wednesday Morning; Boulton and Gentile Still In One Competition Each

Jim Kerr, with his rink composed of Andy Dow, Bill Hoggan and Bob Burt, is in the running for the Grand Aggregate, with only one loss after Wednesday morning's draw had been completed. Edgar of Fernie, is the only rink giving the local rink opposition for the championship honors.

The Kerr rink on Wednesday morning was still in four competitions and had reached the jewelry in three of them. The Boulton and Gentile rinks have not fared quite so well and only retain interest in one competition each. Gentile was assured of a prize, however, as he had reached the jewelry on Wednesday morning.

The Jim Kerr rink was the first to administer a defeat to the Wm. Kerr rink of Bellevue which had gone severely along crashing all opposition. Bill and Jim are uncle and nephew, and Jim certainly got a kick out of trimming his uncle, who is recognized as one of the "canniest" curlers in the game.

Miners Triumph Over Moose Jaw

Jenkins Paced Locals With Two Goals; Klyn Scored For Maple Leafs; Good Crowd

Moderating temperatures paved the way for a good crowd to attend an exciting game between Coleman Miners and Moose Jaw Maple Leafs scored the arena on Saturday evening. Better than around the net game Miners a 4-2 decision, it being the first loss suffered by Moose Jaw on their barnstorming tour. The Leafs had scored the first goal on Friday night by a 6-5 decision.

Jenkins scored twice and Fleming and Pietroszko the others. Klyn scored both Moose Jaw tallies. Fleming and Fields opened the scoring in the first period when they broke through the Leafian defence, Fields passing out from behind the net to Fleming who flipped the rubber home. Giacomo, of Blairmore, who was in a Moose Jaw sweater, was penalized during the period.

In the opening minutes of the second period Jenkins barged through the Leafian defence to shoot right on top of Hunchuck before firing a bullet drive into the 'low corner of the net. Four minutes later Klyn, assisted by Sweeting, put Leafs on the score sheet when he fired the rubber into the Miners' net before Slugg could move. Jenkins scored his second goal when he finished off a play started by Murdoch and Fraser with two and a half minutes remaining of the period.

The third canto had barely started when Pietroszko scored after the rubber behind the Leafian net. He flipped the puck over the Moose Jaw cage, the rubber hit a defence-man's arm and was deflected into the net for Miners' fourth goal. Only a minute and a half was left of the period when the terrific offensive drive of the Leafs finally clicked for a goal, Klyn scoring from Metka.

Leafs are a fast skating team with good combination but their shooting at goal on Saturday night was, to say the least, terrible. Coleman boys were always dangerous when around the Leaf cage. Slugg played a good game and made several shots that looked like goals. Jimmy Joyce was in a Coleman uniform for the first time this season.

Cigarette Fund In Need of Donations

Money Needed to Keep Steady Supply of Cigarettes Going to Local Boys Overseas

The Legion cigarette committee will have their wooden soldier at the bank next Saturday in an endeavor to solicit more money for the cigarette fund. A steady stream of cigarettes is now flowing to the Coleman boys overseas, but funds are becoming low and another concentrated effort will be made to bolster the cigarette finances.

A model of a Spitfire No. 2 has been made by a Legion member and measures 29"x36". Tickets will be sold at 10 cents each by all Legion members. By buying one or more tickets you do much toward maintaining the supply of cigarettes overseas. The draw for the plane will take place March 1.

Colonel Ralston Has Every Confidence In Ultimate Victory

Ottawa.—To help hold the front line of Empire "during the precious days and weeks ahead" will call for the united strength and most unflinching energy the Canadian people can muster, Defence Minister Ralston said in an address over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The minister, who returned to the capital after a visit to the United Kingdom lasting nearly two months, described his mission as "most informing and stimulating" and expressed every hope its results would prove successful.

"I never had the shadow of doubt regarding the justness of the cause in which we have joined battle and the necessity of victory if we are to save this Dominion," Col. Ralston said.

"I come back with determination deepened and strengthened to help in every way I can in this fight which is Canada's fight as well as Britain's. I cannot emphasize too strongly that, while the front line of that fight, is fortunately for us, still in the British Isles, it is our front line and the front line of North America and that it must be held at all costs.

It was generally acknowledged that Canada's war activities were fairly well geared into those of the United Kingdom, the minister said. Consequently, arising out of the conferences which had been held, there had emerged a common agreement that no change in Canada's policy was called for.

It was more a matter of timing and the detailed nature of the Dominion's participation that had been considered in the light of plans and conditions reviewed.

"It was gratifying to hear from the prime minister (Mr. Churchill) and from his colleagues most warm appreciation of what Canada is doing," Col. Ralston continued. "We made it clear, however, that Canada would not be content with anything less than the most effective co-operation possible to discharge the responsibilities which she had voluntarily taken on, but which she regards as her own in the face of peril threatening free democracy which is the foundation of this Dominion."

The minister said that among the most inspiring experiences of his trip had been his visit to the Canadian forces.

That their long months of training had been fruitful was evident, he said, by their bearing and spirit and the confidence they possessed in themselves and in their comrades of all ranks.

"As one who remembers the Canadian Corps of 1915, I feel that no greater tribute could be paid to Canada's army of 1940 than to say, what I sincerely believe, that they are the stuff which will live up to the very best traditions of the Canadian Corps of Vimy, Passchendaele, Amiens and Valenciennes."

The defence minister said Canadians overseas had no illusions, regarding a short war and whatever anxieties they had, the foremost was their desire to come to grips with the enemy and to finish the job.

The minister paid a personal tribute to the Canadian Corps commander, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, and his subordinate officers.

"I have the utmost confidence in these leaders of our men," he said. Col. Ralston said he had also had an opportunity of seeing something of the activities of Canada's naval forces in British waters and her gallant airmen as well.

"Some of you may be thinking that I have worked myself into a state of what is so often called complacency about our naval, military and air forces in Britain," the minister remarked.

"Far from it. . . I am not completely satisfied of course. I found on my trip things which could be improved and no time will be lost in improving them. But that does not detract one whit from what I have said about the outstanding qualities generally of the officers and men of the Canadian forces."

Col. Ralston, who spent much of his time in London and went through some of the most devastating raids in recent months, painted a grim picture of the ordeal the civilian population is enduring. There, he said, was a life of constant peril, of ruthless death to old and young, at their daily tasks or at home, by day and by night. Through all the records of storied past, through the assaults of Vikings, Roman, Dane, Saxon or Norman, none had been so grossly brutal as that which the British people suffered to-day.

Coventry, Bristol, Southampton, Birmingham, Liverpool and many other cities had "suffered the wanton cruelty of the Hun and there was only one courageous, indomitable response: 'We can take it.'"

"We will win this fight for freedom," Col. Ralston declared. "And the reason we will win it is not because we say so but because Canada as well as Britain and all those associated with her will stop at nothing which can effectively be done to ensure the overthrow of Nazism which threatens us as it threatens the world."

May Seek Settlement

French Indo-China And Thailand Afraid Of General Conflict

Singapore.—Reports from Bangkok and Hanoi were interpreted here as indicating readiness by leaders of Thailand and French Indo-China to seek a peaceful settlement of the territorial dispute behind their undeclared war.

Informed quarters said both the Thai and the French still maintained the justice of their respective attitudes, but were being drawn together by fear the frontier strife was developing into a general conflict.

Apology Accepted

Vancouver.—City Prosecutor Orr said that civil authorities will take no action against Y. Matsumoto, secretary of the Vancouver Japanese consulate for taking motion pictures in the vicinity of Jericho air station, and revealed that the Japanese consul here had officially apologized for the incident.

Capture Of Tobruk

Gives British Army Strategic Advantages In North Africa

London.—The British army's entry into the Italian base of Tobruk, Libya, gives it three additional strategic advantages in North Africa, a British military source said.

1. Tobruk has the only good natural harbor on the long Libyan coastline and will give the navy a chance to supply advancing troops operating more than 200 miles west of the railroad at Matruh, Egypt.

2. Tobruk is astride a main coastal road and dominates the highway paralleling this 15 miles inland.

3. The British army should gain three potentially useful airports at El Adem, Gazala and El Temfai and a seaplane base at Bomba.

Tobruk lies about 65 miles west of Bardia, which fell Jan. 5. It had a population of 4,200, of which normally about 10 per cent. were Italians and the remainder Arabs and Jews. Italians had erected stucco structures and other appurtenances of a colonial military centre in the town.

A local water supply was lacking and, after a condensing plant had been found insufficient, water was brought by ship from Derna, to the west. The harbor extends two miles inland and is surrounded by hills.

Nazi War Ace

Flier Of High Rank Is Prisoner Of War In Canada

An East Coast Canadian Port.—A Nazi flier ranked as one of the three most deadly in Goering's air force came to Canada on the way to an internment camp. The 25-year-old fighter pilot, credited in Berlin with shooting down 56 planes since the start of the Spanish civil war, trudged down a ship's gangplank with hundreds of other German aviators captured as they battered at Britain's defenses.

The flier, whose name was withheld by regulations restricting the identification of prisoners, was one of Germany's most noted airmen. He had flown on the side of the Franco forces in the Spanish war, and after that had fought with the Luftwaffe over France, The Netherlands, Belgium and Britain.

He had been awarded the oak leaves, a high German decoration. A British pilot shot him down over the English channel.

Remove War Prisoners

All Internees Have Been Removed From Newfoundland

An East Coast Canadian Port.—There are no more prisoners of war interned in Newfoundland, according to Canadian authorities.

The last of them, a small group of German merchant seamen, were placed aboard a special train with other Nazi prisoners, just arrived from Britain, and taken to an internment camp in the interior of Canada. They arrived from Newfoundland several days ago.

A number of Italian internees had been brought here and sent to another camp earlier.

AIR FORCE DIRECTOR

Air Vice-Marshal E. W. Stedman, D.P.I., who is a member of the Air Council for Engineering and Supply. He interrupted an engineering career to fight in the sky with the Royal Naval Air Service and later with the Royal Air Force. He became technical director of Canada's young air force in 1920 and has remained with that branch.

Air Raid Shelters

More Than Million Persons Take Refuge Underground

London.—London's air raid shelters, now the normal way of life for more than 1,000,000 persons, have improved steadily since the fear-ridden chaos of September, 1939.

A survey of 10 public shelters, 10 semi-public shelters—beneath apartment houses and hotels, and 10 private shelters for individual families demonstrated how a nation of improvisers fashioned some comfort and convenience from the diabolical.

This does not mean the dangers of disease are banished. They are diminishing, but still present.

Many observers feel the nation's ability to resist the dangers of this new way of life is more important than post-war reconstruction.

The best estimates are that the public shelters accommodate up to 250,000 persons nightly in London, perhaps 50,000 more on a bad night. Apartment and hotel shelters accommodate 150,000 more. There is no estimate of the number who camp out nightly in steel "Anderson shelters," but one police official said they must run into hundreds of thousands.

Heavy Artillery

$16,000,000 Capital Expenditures Upon Big Gun Equipment

Ottawa.—Production of heavy land artillery and naval guns, for which an elaborate program was announced some weeks ago, will involve capital expenditure of close to $16,000,000 for plant equipment.

This financing will be carried out by Canada on the account of the United Kingdom government. Orders for heavy guns to be manufactured in Canada now approximate $100,000,000.

VISITS WOLFE'S BIRTHPLACE

Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of works and munitions, inspected an Ontario regiment during the Jan. 2 birthday commemoration ceremony honoring General Wolfe, hero of the taking of Quebec. The ceremonies were at Westernham, Kent, England, Wolfe's native village.

Britain Is Preparing To Meet Expected Nazi Invasion Attempt

London.—Informed military and diplomatic circles in London seriously expect the mightiest onslaught of history with bombing on an unimaginable scale and the use of every modern weapon including flame-throwers and gas, to be launched upon the British Isles within three months.

This is the sober although unofficial opinion of scores of military men, from army privates and ordinary seamen to officers and British Allied and neutral diplomats and political observers who agree that "Germany will try to break Britain and win the war before May."

Britain, these informants believe, will beat off the German invasion attempt, but only after sacrificing half of her air force, three-quarters of her battle fleet and at least 250,000 troops.

Authorities considered requiring a gas mask as an admission "ticket" to bomb shelters, and the ministry of home security weighed plans for the civilian gas alarm practices to shake Britons back into consciousness of this menace.

In fact, not since the Munich crisis and the actual outbreak of the war has Britain evinced such concern over gas attacks.

Meanwhile, the three fighting services have intensified preparations, not for one landing of German troops, but for several.

No purely British army in history ever reached the number 1,000,000 of to-day's combined regular and home guard forces. And no British army of history ever has undergone the comprehensive training given the present one since Dunkirk.

Privates have been re-equipped with a multiplicity of modern weapons and many tactics dear to the old guard have been dropped by the younger officers of the high command.

An idea of the number and intensive nature of the manoeuvres that have been going on may be found in the fact that one command alone has studied 120 distinct "problems" of invasion in "defending" an area against every tactic and type of force, from parachute troops to amphibious tanks.

The Royal Air Force, whose task is to preserve the sky frontiers, has been equipped with hundreds of new planes and expects a heavy influx of more bombers and interceptor fighters from the United States in the spring.

British pilots are as good as can be found and their ground crews and facilities are held adequate for the present emergencies.

Leaders of the R.A.F. have exhibited courage, ambition and boldness of imagination.

The army's plan is to "shoot 'em on the beaches" when the Germans attempt their landings. But some military authorities concede that out of several tries, the Nazis are likely to establish one good bridgehead, into which they would pour every resource in men and materials.

It then would be up to the navy to cut off such seaborne supplies, even if this means the sacrifice of several battleships.

Fortified by the new 35,000-ton battleship, King George V. and several other new and powerful units, the home fleet has redoubled its watch on the North sea and the channel and from cabin boys to admirals the boast is:

"They may land but they won't get supplies."

To cut off any possible bases established, the navy will risk not only small and large destroyers and cruisers against torpedoes of submarines and "E" boats and bombs of the German air force, but the battle-fleet that represents Britain's rule of the seas.

Most neutral military sources agree that Germany, even with the necessity of retaining strong garrisons in the occupied territories, can launch an assault with manpower advantage of about three to two.

Police wardens are being re-instructed in safeguards against parachutists, spies and gas warfare and the ordinary citizen seems ready to fight with bare hands if necessary.

Japan Has Heavy Budget

Huge Amount Does Not Cover Special Military Expenditures

Tokyo.—Finance Minister Iano Kawada submitted to the lower house of parliament the greatest budget in Japanese history, totalling $1,611,433,000 without special military expenditures which will be asked for later.

The budget, for the fiscal year which starts April 1, is $179,622,000 larger than the record budget for last year.

Kawada told the house that while it was estimated bond issues would be required totalling $562,380,000 he added it must be expected that additional bond issues would be required for special military expenditures, which would assume large proportions.

Reached Peak Level

Business Operations In Canada Advanced Steadily Last Year

Ottawa.—Canadian business operations, advancing steadily since the first quarter of 1939, reached a peak level in 1940, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Canada's physical volume of business, best barometer of economic conditions, averaged about 145.0 in 1940 compared with 125.5 in 1929, the bureau said.

Consider Creation Of Canadian Air Force Under Training Plan

London.—Canadian air authorities and British aviation leaders are believed to be weighing the creation of a formidable Canadian air force under the empire training scheme, in which the R.C.A.F. will provide more than 40 squadrons for active service in the war.

Under the new plans the Royal Canadian Air Force would retain its identity and all Canadians graduating under the empire plan would be grouped overseas into all-Canadian squadrons of the Royal Air Force was advanced unofficially.

Up to the present Canadians have been spread among the R.C.A.F. in Britain, the Canadian squadron of the R.A.F. or other units.

These developments, which are reported on good authority, are being discussed with British air officials by Air Vice-Marshal L. S. Bredner of Ottawa, who has completed a series of conferences and visits to Canadian squadrons in the United Kingdom.

Similar questions were discussed with Canada's defence minister, Hon. J. L. Ralston, now returned to the Dominion, and Hon. C. D. Howe, supply minister, at conferences at which British officials were reported to have been given assurance the empire air plan will be self-supporting in relation to training and equipment.

Britain offered to provide 60 Hurricanes for training purposes—they are the same type of plane used by the R.C.A.F. fighter squadrons—and the R.A.F. Canadian squadron—but the Canadians volunteered to provide their own machines and it was suggested the Dominion may even manufacture its own engines.

Ottawa.—Possibility that Canadians trained under the British Commonwealth air training plan might be grouped overseas into all-Canadian squadrons of the Royal Air Force was advanced unofficially.

It was suggested here that some development along this line could be expected. When Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced setting up of the British Commonwealth plan early last year, he said some means would be established so Canadians trained under the plan would retain their identity.

One R.C.A.F. fighter squadron already is operating overseas, with two army co-operation squadrons, one of which is scheduled to become a second fighter unit.

These units, however, are regarded as a voluntary and entirely supplementary contribution to the airman trained under the Commonwealth plan. The latter are trained for service in the R.A.F.

The Fall Of Tobruk Is Described As A Major Fascist Disaster

Cairo, Egypt.—Britain's armies sent patrols far into Libya, testing prospects for a continuation of the spectacular desert offensive, while more than 14,000 prisoners taken in the capture of the vital Italian base of Tobruk were sorted and counted.

The fall of Tobruk was described as a major Fascist disaster. The town, with the only good natural harbor in Libya, now becomes a base to supply advancing British troops. Italian military losses there were put as exceeding those of the British forces by at least 32 times.

Aside from the Italian prisoners taken—and in listing these as above 14,000 the British command used the qualifying term "so far"—2,000 Italian wounded men were evacuated, a general headquarters communique said.

Against these relatively enormous Italian losses—which did not include an undetermined number killed in action—the British command put its own total casualties as "under 500."

Recapitulating announcements since the beginning of the offensive, British sources said the aggregate number of Italian generals now in custody is 16, that at least 99,000 Italian prisoners have been taken, and that the Italian dead, wounded and missing will run around 100,000.

Heavy raids upon Derna were reported by the Royal Air Force; barracks and other military targets were struck by tons of bombs.

New R.A.F. raids in an almost continuous series, made upon Sicily, from which Nazi dive bombers have been harrying the British Mediterranean fleet, were announced.

This time the British bombers hit airdromes at four points in Sicily, including the main German dive bomber base at Catania.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

WHY WE MUST LEND TO WIN (The Financial Post)

THE real reasons why self-denial and savings must urgently be demanded of the civilian population in wartime are well set forth by Morris W. Wilson, Mr. Wilson, president and managing director of the Royal Bank of Canada, spoke at the annual meeting of his institution.

When buyers persist in bidding for goods which are not available, they do not succeed in increasing the supply, but only in running up the prices.

It isn't enough, Mr. Wilson pointed out, for people to draw money out of their savings accounts to lend to the Government. "It is fresh saving that is essential." The important thing is to reduce the demand for ordinary goods, thereby increasing our ability to produce war goods.

The choice between the people of Canada, as Mr. Wilson so clearly pointed out, is a favorable response to the present appeal for war savings or some form of compulsory savings plan.

To those who think that the wealthier classes and the corporations can supply all the money that is needed to lend to the Government, Mr. Wilson had a word to say. He showed that those in the lower income brackets are responsible for perhaps two-thirds of the demand for consumers' goods. If the working man, who has full employment at good wages, makes full use of his increased purchasing power, then rapidly rising prices are inevitable.

On the other hand, the "surplus income" of the higher income groups automatically finds its way into the financial stream and becomes available to the Government. Therefore, if we are to avoid inflation, savings by individuals of the lower income brackets are essential.

The logic of Mr. Wilson's facts is unassailable.

ALBERTA miners are to receive a cost-of-living bonus of eighteen cents per day from January 1 to April 1, 1941, in accordance with agreements made dependent on the rises in cost of living. This will result in increased cost of coal to consumers in the cities, and in Calgary an increase of 25 cents per ton is already in effect. It looks as if the merry circle of price increases will continue as it did in the last war, and prices in most commodities will continue to rise.

EDITORIALS IN BRIEF (The Financial Post)

If you are confused about the better situation here, it is in a nutshell:

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has fixed a "ceiling" to butter prices.

Assailed by farmers, "Jimmie" Gardiner says the Dairy Products Board will fix a "floor" to prices. All that remains now is for some other board to make sure that the Dairy Board's floor is not higher than the Prices Board's ceilings.

We Clareholm people saw some real wartime flying one day this week when a plane from Macleod went through a series of manoeuvres that would lead one to believe the pilot was being chased by or was chasing a red hot Heine.

We are told, that the pilot has actually accounted for 16 German planes in this war. Things must be kinda tame here for a man with experiences like these behind him.—Clareholm Local Press.

MARKS 35TH ANNIVERSARY OF HIGH RIVER TIMES

"Thirty-five years of close business and reader relationship create strong bonds of friendship and mutual goodwill," remarks Charlie Clark when commenting on the 35th anniversary of this fine weekly on December 5th. Associate editor of the paper is Charles A. Clark, Jr., who joined his father's staff 11 years ago. Seniority of service goes to Tommy Logan, who has been with The Times for 22 years. Bob Bradley has been on the staff for 17 years, and Mrs. McCorquodale 13 years.

Disappointment and Extra Work Result of Carelessness

Nearly 4,000 letters and over 1,000 parcels for men overseas that could not be forwarded because of insufficient or incorrect address were received at Post Corps Headquarters, Ottawa, in a single month recently.

Referred to the Records Office of the Army for particulars, only 63 of these letters and 423 of the parcels could be identified for immediate forwarding, while information was obtained in regard to a large proportion of the remainder which would enable the Postal Corps to again try them at re-directed addresses. It was necessary, however, to hold 2,500 pieces of which no record of address could be found. These may later find their way to their destination if addresses make application or information can otherwise be obtained.

Mail for overseas, it is pointed out, should include in the address, the soldier's regimental number, his rank and name, his service or unit, and should be sent c/o Base Post Office, Canada.

Stand-patters never built a business or a town. The public deal with those who are enterprising, and it is enterprising people who build small towns into cities, who figuratively speaking make two blades of grass grow where none grew before.

Letters Of Thanks Received by Legion

Pts. L. T. Hoyle Falls to Receive Number of Cigarettes Journal Leads Him to Expect; Ross Foster Says Everything O. K.

Another batch of letters was received by the Canadian Legion this week from Coleman boys overseas. Those thanking the Legion members for the cigarettes included Dan Foster, F. Coccolone, Bert Murray, Lorenzo Richards, J. M. Hogan, L. McLeod, L. Hoyle and Ross Foster.

Here are some of the letters received:

"Dear Sirs: I received your second carton of cigarettes today, Dec. 18. I am deeply grateful for this gift and although the cigarettes do not arrive as frequently as The Coleman Journal leads me to expect, I still look forward to each mail shipment hopefully. The cigarettes arrived just a few days before Christmas and it brought 'Santa Claus' a little nearer. Thank you again for the gift carton of 300 Sweet Caps.—Pte. L. T. Hoyle."

"To the Canadian Legion: Received your parcel today and sure appreciated it. I wish to thank all those who helped to send them. Everything is in fine shape here, they drop the odd bombs around but they don't seem to do any damage. The Canadian troops are all in fine shape and are just laying around doing nothing. We expect to see action in January and boy we will sure be glad to start and get the thing over with and get back home again. Once again I wish to thank you all for the parcel you sent.—Ross Foster."

"Dear Sirs: Received two shipments from you today and wish to acknowledge same. Sapper DeCecco also received two lots also and asked me to thank you for them as he does not write English.—Spr. L. McLeod."

CHEVROLET'S CONCEALED SAFETY STEPS are safer, more modern than old-fashioned running boards

NO DIRT OR MUD

The Safety Steps are INSIDE the car—fully enclosed and protected when the doors are closed—so naturally they stay much cleaner, much drier.

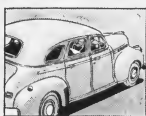

NO "SITTING OR LOITERING"

Ever return to your car and find a stranger—or strangers—sitting on the running board? It can't happen here, for Chevrolet has no running boards.

SMARTER, MORE MODERN STYLING

The elimination of visible running boards "cleans up" our design... makes it simpler, neater—and therefore more attractive, more pleasing to the eye.

NO DANGEROUS SNOW AND ICE

...and less danger of slipping on a treacherous running board when you get in or out of a new Chevrolet equipped with "Concealed Safety Steps."

SAFER, EASIER ENTRANCE & EXIT

Simply open the door and take one step out—not two—either UP into the car or DOWN on to the pavement. You'll find it much safer, much easier.

You'll find Concealed Safety Steps (instead of running boards) at each door of Chevrolet's famous Fisher Body... they look better... they stay cleaner... they provide safer, easier, more comfortable entrance and exit

And remember—only Chevrolet, among all low-priced cars, has this quality feature! Together with many other exclusive advantages provided by Chevrolet at no extra cost... effort-saving Vacuum-Power Shift... comfort-increasing De Luxe Knee-Action... thrifty, dependable Valve-in-Head Engine... it places Chevrolet—General Motors' No. 1 Car—years ahead for years to come! See your Chevrolet dealer, today.

NO "JUMPING ON" CAR

...by children, by vandals or by strangers—with all the dangers of the practice—and, therefore, greater safety for YOU, greater safety for others!

Again CHEVROLET'S the LEADER!

C.A.T.S. Plan Entertainment Program

The C. A. T. S. are planning many enjoyable projects along the line of route marches, hikes, picnics and social evenings. On Friday, Feb. 7, they will be hostesses to the members of the Macleod Air school at a party-dance in the Italian hall. Receiving will be Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Short and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell.

Many novelty dances are planned and a lunch will be served at mid-night in the I.O.O.F. hall. It promises to be an evening of fun.

Many of the Air Force men have never been in the mountains before and they have expressed a desire to see them. Arrangements are being made for a week-end leave and the C.A.T.S. are trying to organize an interesting program for them.

Any person in a position to accommodate one or more air force men over the week-end of Feb. 7-9 please leave their names at the legion club as soon as possible.

URGE REMOVAL OF DANGEROUS BENDS

General conference of all tourist organizations in the province is to be called by Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, according to a recent announcement.

The minister made his plan known at a recent Dominion-provincial tourist conference held in Ottawa. One object of the parley is to review the whole tourist situation and ascertain what steps should be taken in building up increased traffic this year. Efforts will be made to eliminate duplication of efforts and secure greater uniformity of action on the part of urban centres and others interested in developing tourist trade.

Representatives of the Alberta Motor Association, which long has taken a special interest in encouraging tourists to visit Alberta, will be invited to attend the parley.

The province intends to spend at least $25,000 on tourist publicity this year, while there are high hopes that the tourist business total of about $4,500,000 in 1940 will be largely exceeded in 1941.

PRACTICAL LIVING IN 1941

As we grow older we learn less from books, and more from practical life among men and women. It is a great thing, to engage in public service, and to come into contact with men of affairs. It is a great thing to travel, and lose our special prejudices. Still more important it is to put our theories to the test of practical life. If we do not, probably it is but little wisdom we shall acquire.

Life, and the practical activity which it requires of us, are the great means of our training when our youth is over; and to stand apart from them is to lose our intended education.

FROM FAR AND NEAR COME GIFTS TO WAR CAUSE

Freewill gifts to Canada's war cause range from far and wide. The Lions Club of Albuquerque, New Mexico, sends $2 to "buy half a dozen screws for that Spitfire of the Canadian government." Another resident of Albuquerque sends a dollar. From Portland, Maine, comes another dollar. Two Canadians in Memphis, Tennessee forward $100; a lady in Eugene, Oregon, $10. Employees of Robert Michell Co., Montreal, contribute $2,270.75. A five dollar bill, picked up on the office floor of the Daily Times Journal, Fort William (the owner could not be found) helps along the War Fund. The British Columbia division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, cut down expenses of their annual meeting and send along $500.

Accommodation Wanted For Air Men

Among the trainees at Macleod Service Flying Training School, are many men from the eastern provinces, as well as a number from Australia, who during weekend leave would like to visit the mountains, and several people have volunteered to provide accommodation overnight for them. Any courtesies extended would be greatly appreciated, and if there are any Coleman people or in other Pass towns who would be willing to accommodate them, they could leave their names at The Journal office stating when they would be willing to provide accommodation. The practice is quite common overseas and many Canadian soldiers have enjoyed the hospitality of the people there, often in their letters back to Canada telling of how they appreciated it.

TOWN of COLEMAN FINANCIAL STATEMENT

FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31st, 1940

Calgary, Alberta,
18th January, 1941.

The Mayor and Councillors,
The Town of Coleman, Alberta.
Gentlemen:

In accordance with your instructions under the requirements of the Town and Village Act of Alberta, I have audited the accounts and records of the Town of Coleman for the year ended 31st December, 1940, and in addition to completing the Report Form required by the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs, I have also prepared the attached Statements and Balance Sheet for your information from the records of the Town.

The Cash Statement deals only with actual cash transactions completed within the calendar year regardless of whether the items were actually connected with the year 1940 business. The Revenue Statement shows the Earnings and Expenses applicable to year 1940 regardless of whether all these items were received or paid before the books were closed for year 1940. The Revenue Statement shows that after making the usual allowances for Depreciation of the various Assets of the Town, the 1940 business recorded a small Operating Loss of $9.15. You will please note that in addition to the Expenses shown in the Revenue Statement there was also the sum of $2,081.89 spent for additional Street and Sidewalk paving, and the sum of $900 was spent in connection with the new Sports Park. These items being Capital Expenditures, they are omitted from the Revenue Account and listed as Assets in the Balance Sheet.

You will note that Town Tax Arrears have again been reduced and remain at approximately 28 per cent. of the current levy. This is a very satisfactory condition particularly in view of the fact that the Physical Assets of the Town are now covered by Depreciation Reserve Funds amounting to approximately 75 per cent. of the cost of these Assets.

No allowance has been made in the attached Accounts for 1940 Old Age Pensions payments, as the account had not reached your office by today.

During 1940 the Town Council and Public School Board met and it was arranged that the Town should levy and collect School Taxes that year and pay over each month to the School Board the School Taxes collected.

I beg to report having visited your office nine times during the past year and each time I found the work up to date, the cash properly accounted for and deposited in the bank.

Subject to the foregoing I certify that, in my opinion, the attached Balance Sheet is properly drawn up to disclose a true and correct view of the affairs of the Town of Coleman as at 31st December, 1940, according to the best of my information, the explanations given to me, and as shown by the books of the Town of Coleman, Alberta.

E. D. BATTRUM,
Public Accountant.

Night School Classes Finished This Week

The night classes in woodwork held at the school since last October were closed this week. Arrangements however have been made to continue for one or two weeks more from the hours of 6 to 8 p.m. to allow those students who have incomplete projects on hand to finish their work.

These classes have been very well attended and under the guidance of Mr. Frank Turner, manual training teacher for the Pass, many useful articles of home furnishings have been made.

Those taking part in these classes are very appreciative of having such a well equipped shop in which to work and of having the services of Mr. Turner. It is hoped by all that the classes will be continued next year.

S. A. WAR SERVICES OVER $725,000 TO END OF MARCH, '41

TORONTO.—Canadians in uniform, in Canada, Iceland, Newfoundland and overseas, visited the Salvation Army's Red Shield war service centres 5,649,423 times from the date these were opened after the outbreak of war last fall till October 31, 1940, it is revealed today in a report issued by Brigadier Wm. Dray, secretary of the war service department.

The first Red Shield centre for this war was opened at Edmonton September 28, 1939. On November 30 this year, 83 had been built or acquired, equipped, staffed and placed in operation at various military camps and training centres across Canada. Also, as at November 30th, Canada had supplied 19 Salvation Army officers as auxiliary service supervisors with the first and second divisions overseas. Twelve mobile canteens had been put in service "over there," and the "West Central Hotel" had been opened for Canadian troops in London, England.

Total actual expenditures by the Red Shield department to November 30, 1940, had amounted to $525,982.37. Another estimated $190,050 will be required to complete the financing of this department alone till March 31, 1941, making an estimated total of $725,032.37 for Red Shield war work up to the end of March next year.

"Remember, of course, that these figures apply only to our new department set up as a result of the war. In peacetime, we have 421 canteens, 564 "outposts," or centres, 74 social institutions and 69 schools throughout Canada, and of course these are all doing their share to take care of the added burden that war brings to our social life," Brig. Dray concluded.

Just Try It!

The tourist had stopped in a small rural village. He was preparing to leave when he noticed the town constable watching him narrowly.

"What's the speed limit here?" he asked, thinking it wise to be prepared.

"Never ye mind, young feller," replied the rustic cop. "Just yew try t' git out o' this town without bein' arrested." —Exchange.

"THE TASK WILL BE GREATER IN 1941 THAN IT HAS BEEN IN 1940

...it is going to demand more effort, more sacrifice and far more change in our daily lives..."

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING
(NEW YEAR'S EVE, 1940)

ALREADY the pattern and pace of life in Canada have undergone a profound change. Gaps in employment are rapidly filling up. Some 350,000 Canadians who were unemployed before the outbreak of war are now employed. Another 200,000 are with our armed forces. Factories, which until recently were turning out goods for civilian consumption, have been transformed into humming arsenals, pouring out instruments of war. Night and day shifts have become the rule rather than the exception. But the peak of effort is not yet in sight.

In 1941 still more factories will switch to war production... new plants will be established, thousands more will be employed. This rising tide of activity must continue until we reach the flood of effort when every Canadian will be employed and working to his utmost, every possible square inch of plant will be utilized, every wheel will be whirling in the race we are waging against time and the enemy.

More men are working... working longer hours... making more munitions... earning more money... producing more goods... putting more money into circulation. Most Canadians are sharing in this increased national wealth — have extra dollars in their pockets.

The effort the Prime Minister calls for is gaining momentum, but many Canadians, as individuals, have not yet felt the real pinch of sacrifice.

Canadians of all classes are sharing tax burdens, but it must be admitted that up to date the larger part of the money needed for Canada's war effort has come from business firms and individuals with large incomes. They are paying high taxes. They have already invested heavily in War Loan Bonds.

This is not enough. The plain truth is that Canada's rapidly expanding production for war purposes will require increasing sums of money. That is why the Prime Minister warned Canadians in his New Year's broadcast that the year ahead demands more effort and more sacrifice.

Every man, woman and child is asked to lend. Every dollar you lend will help to put another man in a job... making more munitions. Every dollar you lend may save a soldier's life... help to shorten the war. Small wage earners must carry their share of the burden, too.

No one need go without necessities, but you are urged to forego the purchase of unnecessary articles... however small the cost... no matter how well you are able to pay for them... which take labour and material away from the great task of providing goods needed to win the war.

This is your war. Everything you have... everything you believe in... is now at stake. This is a message to you... a challenge to every Canadian... a call to the colours... a call for volunteers.

Be sure to make provision to pay your Income Tax— payment is made easier by the new instalment plan. But be prepared to do more — budget your earnings to make sure that you will have money available to buy War Savings Certificates and to subscribe for War Loan Bonds. You will help Canada — you will help yourself.

Was Not Eligible

Air Raid Wardens Would Not Accept Services From Man From Another Country

In the train, from a fellow-passenger, I heard a story. He was passing by car through the dock area of "a town in the West of England" one evening last week when a terrific raid overtook him. The wardens stopped him, forbade him to go either forward or back, and directed him to a shelter. Presently, close at hand a furious fire broke out. He went and offered his help to the men who were working, with hands far too few for the job, to deal with it.

"What county do you come from?" was the astonishing question he had to answer before they would accept his help. When he confessed that he came from Worcestershire instead of Gloucestershire, his services were rejected. And why was that the wrong county? Because he might have been injured, and then his own county would have refused to pay compensation.

He withdrew to his shelter, wondering not a little, while the fire blazed away.—London New Statesman.

Interesting To Know

Explanation As To How Corned Beef Got Its Name

Armour Magazine says: The word corn was synonymous back in the sixteenth century and prior thereto with the word grain. What we call corn was not known in those days. About 1550 the manufacturers of gunpowder began using the term "corned" to indicate that their product had been spread out and allowed to dry in single grains. Shortly thereafter they applied the term "corned" to the sprinkling of grains of salt on beef and other meats for the purpose of effecting a cure or preservation. In the years since the sixteenth century the original use of the word "corned" has been discontinued but it still stands to indicate the use of grains of salt in the curing of meat.

And now "Lawrence in Arabia" has a companion chapter, the name of which may well be "Wavell in Africa."

British Export Trade

10,000,000 Messages Sent To Overseas Customers
Britain has "delivered the goods" 10,000,000 times in the past year. Soon after the war, British exporters decided that the excellence of British products coupled with the fact that orders from abroad were fulfilled to time be brought home to overseas customers.

A number of methods of doing this were adopted. Here is one of them.

A Stencilling Committee was appointed to co-operate with the various export groups. In the past year, the Union Jack surmounting the slogan "Britain delivers the goods" has been stencilled on 10,000,000 packing cases containing goods for overseas buyers.

The cases have ranged in size from those containing motor-cars to those cases the lettering is a foot or more high—to small cases of high quality goods.

More and more British exporters are now using these stencils and soon every dockside throughout the free world, every warehouse, every road and railway in the farthest corners of the earth will carry Britain's message.

Still In Operation

British Empire Airways Carry On In Spite Of War

Airways of the British Empire are still open after a year and a half of war and extended services are planned for 1941 as commercial aviation looks with confidence to the future.

During 1940, flying boats and land planes of British Overseas Airways flew 5,000,000 miles and carried 30,000,000 letters. Even in mid-winter and despite wartime hazards, B.O.A. planes are flying more than 100,000 miles a week.

Plans for this year include extension of the London-Lisbon service and reopening and extension of the North Atlantic service.

North Atlantic passenger flights by the flying boats Claret and Clyde are to be resumed in the spring. It is learned unofficially that three other flying boats bought by the government from Pan-American Airways, likely will be used in this service.

QUEER FEELINGS MAY MEAN YOUR NERVES NEED CARE

Treat With Understanding

How bewildered the victim of "nerves" often feels! Subject to mysterious aches, spells of depression, indigestion—but told by her family that it's all imagination—no wonder she thinks she's "going crazy."

"Nerves" are as real as a broken bone and if you are the high-strung vital type you are especially vulnerable.

You are likely to do everything too tensely, pour out your emotions too lavishly. Then you fritter away the energies which could make you more charming and successful than the stolid type, you're left a prey to ill, a thousand nameless fears.

But, like a broken bone, your "nerves" will yield to intelligent care. Schedule your day. Don't give to one task so much energy you haven't enough left for another. If you find yourself emotionally wrought up over some family incident get a new perspective by paying a call, going to a movie.

Learn, too, when part diet and physical ill such as eyestrain and anemia play in "nerves."

In our 32-page booklet, a well-known physician explains the physical and psychological causes of "nerves." Gives advice on overcoming worry, indigestion, insomnia, other nervous ailments. Describes proper diet, body care.

Strange Tales

Misleading Reports About Canada Circulated In The United States
Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, and Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, are separated by a mile or so of river and united by a ferry service. The two Soos are almost one community.

Yet two chapters from the Michigan Soo crossed over to the Ontario Soo the other day, one of them with a dollar in his pockets and the other with $2. They said they brought so little money because they had heard "a fellow is liable to have his money taken away from him by the Canadian authorities at any time." One of these men, the Sault Star says, is an official of his Michigan county.

"If," says the Star, "this kind of misinformation is rife so close to the border, what may be expected in towns in the interior? And what are we going to do about it?"

Undoubtedly reports of this sort, circulated either through ignorance or with malicious intent, did a great deal of harm to the Canadian tourist trade last year. Whatever possible was done by the Canadian Travel Bureau, by provincial and municipal and private tourist agencies, to counteract damaging rumors, but it is much easier to start such yarns than to stop them by publication of the truth.

Just as certainly they will have an effect this year unless tourist agencies concentrate effectively in getting to the people of the United States the messages that Canada will welcome them, that their lives and property are as secure here as in times of peace, that they can still go almost anywhere and see almost everything—the only exceptions being a very few military areas from which they would be excluded even in their own country.—Ottawa Journal.

Canada's National Income

Shows Eight Per Cent. Increase In 1940 Over Previous Year

Canada's national income in the 11 months ended Nov. 30, 1940, showed an eight per cent. increase over the corresponding 11 months of 1939, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Income for the 11 months of 1940 totalled $4,305,000,000 compared with $4,041,000,000 in the same period of 1939, the bureau said.

The bureau also issued a tentative estimate of the national income for the entire year 1940. This figure was quoted at $4,800,000,000, indicating an estimated increase of nine per cent. over the $4,409,000,000 of 1939.

Three main economic divisions participated in the expansion, the bureau noted, but uneven gains were recorded. These main divisions included production branches, transportation and trade activities and finance, government and service.

Still Sight-Seeing

Despite German bombings, sight-seeing is still a thriving industry in London. Poles and Czechs, Hollanders and Belgians, men of Free France and Austrian refugees and men from the Dominions are treading old familiar paths.

Egg Shortage In Britain

In spite of the fact that Canada shipped more than 10,000,000 dozen of eggs to the United Kingdom in 1940, as against an annual normal export of 1,000,000 dozen, eggs are, it is reported, scarce in Great Britain.

WINTER GOLF TOURNAMENT

Canadians and American golfers will gather at the Seaside Oak Bay Course in Victoria, B.C., March 9-15, for the annual Empress Winter Golf Tournament. The 13th renewal of the popular tourney, which features the Sir Edward Beatty handicap event, will see the usual big field of Seattle and other Washington players battling it out with amateurs from all parts of British Columbia, and such prairie cities as Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, and Medicine Hat. Above view from the seventh green of the Oak Bay course, showing the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Kathleen steaming by, illustrates the scenic charm of the sportsy course where the event will be played.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE INDIVIDUAL'S RESPONSIBILITY REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

Golden Text: Abstain from every form of evil. 1 Thessalonians 5:22.
Lesson: Habakkuk 2:15; Genesis 4:9-12; Mark 9:42-48; 1 Thessalonians 5:22.
Devotional reading: Ezekiel 3:16-21.

Explanations and Comments

Woe unto the Drink Giver, Habakkuk 2:15. It is Israel's foreign rulers, the Chaldeans (i.e. Babylonians), that the prophet is denouncing. At the court-banquets wine was given until all were drunk, and upon the givers thereof the prophet cries "Woe!" For "that addeth thy venom thereto" the translation "out of large bowls" is suggested as the text is faulty.

A Brother's Keeper. In the familiar story from the Book of Genesis, Cain and Abel were sons of Adam and Eve. Cain became a husbandman, a tiller of the ground, and Abel a shepherd. The two brothers brought each an offering to Jehovah. Cain's offering was the fruit of the ground; Abel's, the first-born of his flock. Jehovah approved Abel's offering, but not Cain's. Why this was so, the story does not say, but Cain's anger and his lie and his insolence (verse 9), show that we are to find the trouble in Cain himself rather than in his offering. He was not the sort of man that could be pleasing to God.

Cain could not endure to have his brother prefer him before him, and in his anger he slew his brother. He was given a chance to confess his sin: "Where is Abel thy brother?" Jehovah asked. "I know not," he replied, and insolently asked, "Am I my brother's keeper?" We are our brother's keeper. We are responsible, as far as lies within our power, for our brothers of every land and race and circumstances. Brotherhood, in Christ's teaching, means responsibility.

"What has thou done?" cried Jehovah, the story continues; "the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground." Murder is a crime which calls for punishment. Compare Job 1:18; Ex. 24:7, 8.

"Cursed art thou from [away from] the ground which hath opened its mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand," Cain is expelled from the cultivated soil. "When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee its strength." The earth was to become sterile. "In other words, Cain was to cease to be an agriculturist and was to turn to something else for support. Moreover, as he could no longer get food from the soil, it was necessary for him to migrate elsewhere, and so become a colonist and a wanderer in the land" (A. H. Sayre). "The Hebrew word translated 'fugitive' means a 'trotter,' the word denoting the hesitating, uncertain, halt of one not knowing where to go, or fainting for lack of food, or drunken." (S. R. Driver).

Plenty Of Coal

Stocks In Great Britain Are Higher Than Last Year

Great Britain looks forward to the remainder of the winter with the satisfaction there is abundant coal for everybody. These three coal facts speak for themselves:

1—Britain already has 9,000,000 tons more coal in stock than she had last year.

2—No fewer than 489 reserve dumps have been set up in different parts of the country. 161 in London—and these will store another 5,000,000 tons.

3—Public utility companies such as gas, electricity, water undertakings and railways, have about 35 per cent. more coal in stock than they had his time last year.

MOULDS IN FOOD

Mould growth in foods is not usually dangerous. In many cases the formation of mould in food increases its palatability. For example, some kinds of cheese, such as Roquefort, Limburger, Brie and Camembert, are eaten only after extensive mould growth has taken place. The characteristic flavour and smell of these cheeses are due to the substances formed by the particular species of mould.

What are moulds? They are groups of tiny plants so small that the individual structures can be seen only with the aid of a microscope. They develop from spores which are similar to the seeds of the higher plants. The spore is the reproductive element of one of the lower organisms or plants.

The commoner moulds go by the names of Mucor, Penicillium or Aspergillus. The white or slightly woolly patches seen on the surface of meat in cold storage is due to a mould or fungus known as the sporotrichum carnis.

The spores or seeds of moulds are hard to kill; they can withstand unfavourable conditions for days and when given favourable conditions such as food, a temperature neither too hot nor too cold, moisture and in some cases oxygen, will live for a long time.

Mould on top of jams, jellies and preserves is unsightly, but not harmful and the same is true of moulds on bread and other foods. Mould growth may be prevented by maintaining foods at medium temperatures, and by keeping them free from moisture. Homemade sausage may be kept from moulding by dipping the sausage in melted fat. When cold, the fat forms an impervious coating and resists the growth of mould.

Agriculture And War

Demand For Food Products Increased As Result Of The War

Reviewing the whole agricultural situation in Canada, it has its light and shade as it always has, and as doubtless it will always have while it is an industry so closely associated with the capricious elements of nature. Increased employment due to war activity has increased the demand for food products in several directions. The need for more workers in manufacturing industries and enlistments in the fighting forces has naturally begun to cause a shortage of farm labour. With the prolongation of war, agriculture will be called on to withstand the continued impacts as a result of the conflict and will have to readjust itself accordingly. Farmers throughout Canada are resolved to contribute everything within their power, as they did in the 1914-18 war, towards victory in the cause for which the British Empire is fighting, but naturally they hope for a fair return for their efforts.

Mail for soldiers overseas last November contained more than 5,000 letters and parcels insufficiently and incorrectly addressed, national defence headquarters said.

CHAPTER IV.

There was a small crowd of men and girls on the corner, watching for street cars. As soon as a car would appear, already crowded, there would be a sudden, jostling rush for its doors, a dozen or more hands would push their way onto the platform or cling precariously to the steps, while the rest stepped back a little on the safety island, resolved to catch the next car that came along.

Nancy Thorne stood a little apart from the crowd. For all that she had spent a week now in the office of the John Bristow Company, she still felt like an outsider. But that was not the reason she stood by herself now. She had decided to wait until the cars became less crowded, even if she stood on that corner for an hour, two hours.

A small couple, badly in need of paint, slowed to a stop in front of her.

"May I offer you a ride, Miss Ellis?" a voice called.

She glanced into the coupe and saw that the driver was Hugo Blake, Tom's friend. He had opened the door as he spoke and she stepped in gratefully, glad to escape the discomfort of the long ride on the street car.

"You look tired," he said sympathetically as he started the car. "Let me put down the window—there. Now take off your hat. Isn't that better?"

Nancy leaned her head back and let the wind blow through her red-gold curls.

"Much better. It's been frightfully warm to-day."

"Indeed it has, Miss Ellis. Or should I call you Miss Thorne when there is no one from the office to hear?"

"Please!" Nancy felt the color rising in her cheeks. "Tom never should have said that to you. I don't know what possessed him."

"I understand," Hugo Blake said sympathetically. "It is hard, becoming used to something so new." He laughed again and added, "I don't mean the new name, but the new life."

"It is hard," Nancy said impulsively at last. "I'm tired." Without warning and to her own horror, she burst into tears.

"Oh, now, now, now!" Hugo Blake swung the coupe over to the curb and stopped, drew out of his pocket the largest white handkerchief Nancy had ever seen, and began wiping her eyes. "You poor child. But please don't cry. Tell me all about it, but please don't cry any more."

Nancy buried her face in the huge white handkerchief and attempted to stem the flow of tears. They were not the first she had shed in that long week, but the others had been in the privacy of her dingy little room.

"I'm terribly sorry," she gasped at last. "I'm tired, I guess, and it has been hard—". Suddenly she found herself telling him the whole story, the loneliness and boredom of the little room, the unfriendliness of the girls in the office, the constant counting of dimes and nickels and pennies. He listened quietly, patting her shoulder now and then. At last the rush of words ceased. His bright, inquisitive eyes looked at her sympathetically through his thick glasses.

"You feel better, now that you have talked to someone— isn't it so?" She nodded. He patted her shoulder again and drove on chatting idly of trivial things. At least she felt recovered enough to stare at him curiously. He was a heavy-set man, shorter than Tom. His round, amiable face looked rather dull, deceptively so, she guessed, because his bright, blue eyes seemed clever, almost cunning. She glanced at his hands as they rested on the wheel, they were muscular, but with thick, short fingers.

"What do you do at the Bristow plant?" she asked suddenly.

"Me? Oh," He laughed. "I am in what you call the loading division. Head of it, now. I was a machinist."

"That isn't what I mean," Nancy said, feeling a little uncomfortable. "I mean—" she felt the color rising in her cheeks again, "you don't talk like a machinist or a truck loader—you talk like—" her voice broke off suddenly.

"Like an educated man? All right, I'll confess. I am what you call an educated man. In fact—and this really is a confession—I'm a writer."

"A writer? But—" "That's why I'm working at John Bristow & Co. I'm getting material for a series of articles on American industrial methods, and I'm trying to really get it at the source. Understand?"

"Yes—I think so. I'm afraid, though, I'm not working for any such reason. I have to earn a living, that's all."

"That's nothing to complain about, young lady. Just be glad that you can earn one. Say—you type, of course, don't you?"

"Yes. Why?"

"I have an idea. I have any amount of material that has to be copied, and I'm a rotter, typist. I've been looking for someone to do the work, in fact. If you'd like to take it on—perhaps you could earn enough to pay for stockings and lipsticks, at least. Have you any spare time?"

"Spare time? Let's of it," Nancy hoped she was concealing the bitterness in her voice.

"Good. There isn't a great deal to do—only to make accurate copies of material I will give you—" Hugo Blake went on talking about the work he was doing as a writer.

A little later when Nancy climbed the dingy carpeted stairs to her room she was filled with a new enthusiasm. The amount she would be paid for copying material for Hugo Blake would not be much, but it would help considerably. More, it would give her something to do in those long lonely evenings. She changed her dress, went to a solitary dinner at the little corner cafe, and returned to her room. A few minutes later Hugo arrived, carrying a rented typewriter, a great pile of typing paper and a folder of reports.

The work was not hard to understand, as he explained it to her. Four carbon copies of each report. Accuracy was essential. Finally, the copying had to be done as quickly as possible.

He went away and left the work with her. She arranged a light over the makeshift desk and set to work.

After a few minutes of typing she stopped suddenly. The material she was copying seemed familiar. She glanced quickly through the pile of reports beside the rented typewriter. Yes, it was familiar. She had seen these reports before in the filing case marked "confidential," the one that was locked so carefully every night.

How had Hugo Blake gotten those reports? She had opened that filing cabinet by mistake a day or so before, only seeing enough of its contents that she recognized them now. Then Midge Fletcher had been down on her like a whirlwind. Only three employees, who had been in the office for a long time, could open the confidential file.

She puzzled over it for a while before the explanation came to her. Of course, Hugo Blake wasn't just head of the loading division. He wasn't just another employee. He was working for John Bristow & Co. just to study this very material, for the articles he was going to write. No doubt he had been given access to whatever information he needed.

Nancy set to work then, glad of an occupation to fill the evening, even though it were no more than copying dry-as-dust figures on a rented typewriter. A little past 10 she had finished the work and telephoned Hugo Blake.

"Finished already?" he said over the telephone, pleased surprise in his voice. "Then I'll call for what you've done, if I may. Perhaps you'll go out with me for a sandwich."

At midnight, when Nancy turned out her light and prepared to sleep, she felt there was a new interest in living after all. Not only had she earned some badly needed money, but sitting in the little coffee shop with Hugo Blake had been fun.

It was a little past 9 the next morning, and Nancy was working industriously at her desk, when she was called into Mr. Grimshaw's office. She felt a moment's panic as Midge Fletcher conveyed the message to her with an air of gloating pleasure. She had never dared think of what she might do if she were to be fired.

Mr. Grimshaw looked up across his desk, his thin, deeply lined face drawn with anxiety and exhaustion. "Close the door and sit down, Miss Ellis." He appeared to be hunting for just the right words to use.

"You're young. You have your life ahead of you. I wish you'd leave this job."

She was puzzled and more than a little frightened.

"Are you firing me, Mr. Grimshaw?"

He looked up at her, almost startled. "You know I can't do that. She puzzled over that for an instant, then decided it was because of John Bristow. For a moment angry color flamed in her cheeks.

"I understand what you mean, Mr. Grimshaw. But I'm going to stay just the same."

"Suit yourself, Miss Ellis. I can't do more than advise you."

She went back to her desk, at first too relieved at the knowledge that her job was secure to ponder over Mr. Grimshaw's peculiar behavior. But as she attacked the pile of work with renewed vigor, her mind kept returning to the strange conversation. It was because she was under John Bristow's protection that she couldn't be fired? Or had something else been intended? The office manager had almost seemed to be warning her.

"Would you mind saving your day-dreaming until the noon hour, Miss Ellis?" It was the sharp, cutting voice of Miss Fletcher. Nancy bent her head over her typewriter to hide the embarrassment that colored her cheeks, and went on working.

However the day that had begun so strangely held a second surprise. At noon as she was leaving the luncheon, Tom Cantwell stopped her at the door, and laid a lean, brown hand on her arm.

"Walk up and down the corridor a bit with me, Nancy. Act as if I were asking for a date or something." His gray eyes smiled at her.

Her first impulse, remembering what she had heard him say the day before, was to walk indignantly away. For some reason that she

Lose Track Of Days

No Sunday Breaks Routine For Aircraft Workers And Pilots

Sunday as a day of rest has been put aside in Britain until the end of the war, as far as aircraft workers and the men who fly the planes they make are concerned.

"Only pay day lets us know what day it is," an employee of an aircraft construction company told Hurricane pilots during a visit to a fighter command station in the south of England.

"If it weren't for pay day we would not have any idea of the day of the week. Saturdays and Sundays are just as busy as any other day of the week."

"It's the same with us," a squadron leader answered. "One of our pilots had a few hours off, so he went into the nearest town to do some shopping. He came back empty-handed."

"Must be early closing day," he said. Then he looked at the calendar and discovered it was Sunday."

Blankets From Canada

Provide Comfort For People In Britain Bombed Areas

Britain's heavily-bombed areas—London's East End, Birmingham, Bristol, Coventry—know that the words Canadian Red Cross are synonymous with mercy. In the last three months, the organization's London bureau has sent 10,000 blankets and quilts to these regions and distributed more than 100,000 articles of clothing throughout the country. Bright red blankets, the Canadian Red Cross' special color, are becoming familiar sights in large public shelters.

Very Little Air Sickness

Air sickness, a bugaboo to sky transportation in the early days of passenger traffic, is next to extinct today. The latest records of the big transport companies show that only about 33 passengers in 10,000 actually get sick to-day.

Blackpool, England, has equipped its dog and cat air raid shelter with first aid materials.

COURTESY

Courtesy is love in trifles, and where love is not, though its counterfeits may abound, courtesy itself is not—George Jackson.

The small courtesies sweeten life; the greater, ennoble it.—Bovee.

There is a courtesy of the heart; it is allied to love. From it springs the purest courtesy in the outward behavior.—Gotho.

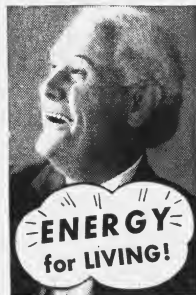

When the heart speaks, however simple the words, its language is always acceptable to those who have hearts.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The courtesies of a small and trivial character are the ones which strike deepest to the grateful and appreciating heart.—Henry Clay.

All doors open to courtesy.—Thomas Fuller.

Oldest Known Turtle

The oldest known turtle on record is a Marion's tortoise that lived on the island of Mauritius for 152 years, according to an article in Natural History, magazine of the American Museum in New York City. Records show that this tortoise lived on the island from 1766 to 1918, when it was killed in an accident. 2396
